Information and habitat: The Luera Mountains contain more than 75,000 acres of State Trust Land consisting of open grasslands, woodlands, and forests with game species including elk, deer, black bear, cougar, and wild turkey. Through its Open Gate program the New Mexico Department of Game and Fish partnered with the Rocky Mountain Elk Foundation in 2014 to lease a long term road easement from the New Mexico State Land Office into the Luera Mountains. This 35 year right-of-way agreement provides the only public access for hunting, trapping, and other permitted outdoor recreation into the southern portion of New Mexico State Trust Lands of the Luera Mountains. Large-scale wildlife habitat and watershed projects are also currently underway to help restore and improve thousands of acres across this mountain range.

Purpose: The purpose of this lease is to provide improved, long term road access for properly-licensed hunters, trappers, and anglers onto State Trust Lands in the Luera Mountains.

Permitted Uses: Properly-licensed users may travel on designated State Land Trust roads throughout the Luera Mountains for the purpose of legal hunting, trapping and fishing in accordance with the terms and conditions contained within the lease agreement between the Department of Game and Fish and the New Mexico State Land Office. No off-road travel is permitted.
