Share with Wildlife 2017 Final Report

Wildlife Rehabilitation

In the period from January 1, 2017 to December 15, 2017, New Mexico Wildlife Center admitted 532 animals to our ICU unit. Of the 256 animals that survived their first 24 hours in care, 150 of those animals – or 60% - were released back into the wild. The attached document contains a complete list of species, date admitted, reason for admission, and outcome. Our admissions total is down slightly from 2016, as our hospital unit was closed for renovations and staff training from October 15 – December 10. We networked with other local licensed rehabilitators during that time to get injured animals appropriate care. Our hospital is now fully reopened and operational and we are pleased to welcome a new wildlife rehabilitator, Hilary DeVries, to our care team. Her previous experience includes two years as a Team Leader for WildCare Oklahoma, and experience as a veterinary technician. Thanks to new partnerships with Smith Veterinary Hospital and the Santa Fe Animal Shelter, we now have five veterinarians who are assisting with cases in our wildlife hospital: Dr. Julie Breer, Dr. Bridget Lyman, Dr. Nicole Walrath, Dr. Michelle Salob, and Dr. Sarah Sirica.

As members of the community bring injured wildlife to our facility for rehabilitation, we are in a unique position to provide information and education about wildlife in our state. Our staff spoke to each rescuer about the injuries suffered by the animal they found, including how to prevent such injuries in the future. We also fielded over 600 phone calls from people in New Mexico who had questions about wildlife around their homes and communities.

Wildlife Education

In the period from January 1, 2017 to December 15, 2017, New Mexico Wildlife Center's Education Team has presented sixty-six educational programs for more than 3,000 people. Sixteen of these programs were for the general public, thirty-four were for school-aged children, and six were specifically for college classes. Twenty-four of these programs were held at NMWC and included a tour of our facility and learning about all of our Ambassador Animals. Other programs were held at area schools or outdoor venues, such as Abiquiu Lake and the Rio Grande Visitor Center in Pilar. Seven programs were provided to at-risk youth in Santa Fe County through Santa Fe County Youth Development.

Wildlife education program topic and content varies based on age of the audience, but each program allows participants to meet animals from New Mexico in an up-close setting. This close-up view of wild animals provides members of the audience with unique opportunities to make a personal connection with wildlife. This personal connection then provides the springboard for our educators to teach about wildlife, native habitats, and discuss issues faced by wildlife in our state.

For example, in March we hosted three programs entitled “What’s Wild” for pre-Kindergarten groups. Our educator discussed the differences between wild and domestic animals, leading students to understand why wildlife should be left in the wild and not kept as pets. For older students we address topics like animal adaptations and New Mexico’s native wildlife; these not only help students learn science topics in keeping with state standards, but also allow them to develop a deeper appreciation of our state’s wildlife and wild places, encouraging them to become better stewards of wildlife as they grow into adults.

The Animal Ambassadors participating in these programs are housed onsite at New Mexico Wildlife Center and provide an educational opportunity for visitors to the center. In 2017, more than 1,600 people came through NMWC to complete the self-guided tour of our Ambassador Animals. We also hosted an event for International Migratory Bird Day in May, a Pollinator Party in July, and our annual Open House in October, which was attended by an additional 700+ people. Open House was a tremendous success, with many people new to the Center visiting and learning about wildlife both through formal presentations and informal talks throughout the two-day event. Total number of people reached through our educational efforts was approximately 5,300.

During 2017, NMWC acquired several new Animal Ambassadors for use in wildlife education programs. These include an American Kestrel, a Bald Eagle, a Box Turtle, and a Great Horned Owl. We also placed two birds with other licensed organizations as both required more specialized enclosures and husbandry than we are currently able to provide.

Daily husbandry of our Ambassador Animals is overseen by NMWC’s new Animal Specialist, Shawna Protze; she brings over 15 years of experience in animal care and falconry to the position. Shawna trains our Animal Ambassadors with the assistance of Executive Director, Melissa Moore, and a number of volunteers. We are also pleased to announce that Jenny Tato started in December in the new position of Wildlife Education Coordinator. Jenny brings deep experience in environmental education and a passion for conservation and wildlife to the program. She will be responsible for assisting Shawna with animal care and overseeing our wildlife education programs. In addition to fully developing our new program topics and titles in accordance with state science standards, her presence will allow us to significantly increase the number of programs we are able to offer in 2018.

Please contact us with any additional questions or for further information. We sincerely appreciate the opportunity to partner with NMDGF through the Share with Wildlife Program!

Here is a selection of photos from some of our 2017 programs.

One of NMWC's volunteer handlers introduces Oscar, our Great Horned Owl.

A volunteer handler asks a class of students from a summer program what our Bald Eagle, Maxwell, eats.

A preschool student watches Maxwell, our Bald Eagle, on a tour of NMWC's Animal Ambassadors.

A 6th grade student from our summer wildlife camp learns about Basil, our Bullsake.

Participants in an adult continuing education program meet Artemis, a Peregrine Falcon, handled by one of NMWC's volunteers.
